Articles contained in this issue of the GAATW newsletter represent the views of the respective authors and not necessarily those of the entire GAATW network. The editorial team has edited all articles as much as possible with the author's approval before publication. However, the authenticity of the author's voice is maintained and the author's rights are respected in cases where the author feels strongly about keeping certain text and/or style considerations intact.

For more information on the stories in this newsletter, or any aspect of GAATW and our work, please contact the Secretariat.
